

U.S. President Theodore Roosevelt shares a little about himself and his presidency with guests.

LIBRARY HOSTS "Night at the Museum" HALLOWEEN EVENT

Kim Davenport (left) and her daughter portray female pirates Mary Reed and Anne Bonny.

BY HOLLY JACKSON
The Washington daily news

On Oct. 30, Washington's George H. and Laura E. Brown Library hosted a new Halloween event, trading its usual "Harry Potter" theme for "Night at the Museum."

Attendees enjoyed a performance by the New Bern Puppets at the Grace Martin Harwell Senior Center before heading to the Museum of the Pamlico, where they met historical figures spanning centuries, from ancient Egypt to colonial America.

PHOTOS BY HOLLY JACKSON/WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS

A mummy greeted guests entering the Museum of the Pamlico.

Sarah Godley (left) with Abigail Cabrera with the City of Washington.

See More Photos, MUSUEM, Page 8B

MUSUEM

Continued from 1B

MOLLY JACKSON/WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS

Betsy Ross, portrayed by Betsy Hester, taught guests about making the first American flag.

Edwin Averette dressed in a Shakespearean costume.

Upon traveling through the museum, guests could take photos with a dinosaur.

Joe Hester, portraying George Washington, shared information about America's first president.

Upon traveling through the museum, guests could take photos with a dinosaur.